

AUTHOR & EDUCATOR

Born and raised in Brooklyn, New York, Martine fell in love with reading as a bored kid hanging out in her Brooklyn apartment. As a teenager, she got her first job working in the Brooklyn Public Library system. Today, her work as an educator helps her find inspiration in new and exciting ways. With 20 years of experience in higher education and over ten years of experience as a writer, she aims to help kids discover meaningful lessons through the pages of a book.

Motivated by the conviction that literature helps young people build confidence, tap into creativity, and discover joy, Martine uses her background as an educator and her life experiences as a mom of three to guide her words and the creative vision for her books. She wants to help kids embrace the best parts of themselves through words and images that represent who they are.

When Martine is not teaching or writing, she enjoys spending time with her family, reading, watching television, drawing, and listening to podcasts. She lives in Maryland with her husband, dog, and their three book-loving kids.

With You Wherever You Go

In a world filled with uncertainty, children are often in search of comfort and safety. Written in beautiful rhyme, With You Wherever You Go reminds children that no matter where they are--no matter what they face--God is by their side through it all. That assurance gives them the confidence, courage, and hope they need to soar.

Gabby and the Big Art Show

Gabby loves art. She loves it so much, she enters an art contest at school every year. But, when Gabby feels stuck and doesn't want to create anymore, she needs help remembering why she loves art. Join Gabby on this sweet journey that leaves her smiling and teaches her lessons about art and life that we all should learn.

WHAT OTHERS HAVE TO SAY

With You Wherever You Go is simply a pleasure to have heard read aloud! (It was not enough to have just read it in silence.) Once the book was unpackaged we chose to read it aloud and the message was well received by an audience of women from three generations. The book's message and its graphic brilliance offers an experience you don't want to miss sharing with readers across generations.

Dr. Elaine Sykes
Grandma & Educator

This is a beautifully written and illustrated book. The author successfully conveys powerful messaging and assurances for younger readers that will help guide them throughout their life and spiritual journeys. Well done.

L. Olivier
Father and CEO

I love everything about this book...the rhythmic flow, the diversity in the images that you see, and the message is so positively affirming. I can see this being a bedtime favorite for many. It's a beautiful reminder for parents and children alike..

My books are literally piled into every nook & cranny, so adding to my collection has become selective, simply for a lack of space. However, this new book is a welcome addition! The simple poetry illustrates the beautiful truth that in all aspects of life, good, bad, sad, joyful, or confusing God is with us wherever we go. The diversity of representation unifies readers of every color & ethnicity as the story shares our commonality of life experiences. This is a short, sweet read that imparts a lesson of comforting truth - God is with us wherever we go.
